

The 10th Dongsheng Cup International Entrepreneurship Competition

In the congratulation remarks for Zhongguancun Forum, President of China Xi Jinping stressed that in today's world the development of science and technology must have a global vision, grasp the pulse of the time and closely follow the new requirements put forward by life.

China attaches great importance to scientific and technological innovation and is committed to promote the global scientific and technological innovation cooperation.

Since Dongsheng Cup's first launch in 2013, the competition has been successfully held for nine times, attracting 11,306 start-ups, including more than 2,500 international projects. The cup aims to create an innovation platform that gathers cutting-edge advantages and scientific support for new drivers of global innovation and entrepreneurship.

The competition brings together the global innovation resources and entrepreneurship ecosystem, cooperating with global incubators to jointly cultivate start-ups.
